Uses and Disclosures of Psychological Information for Treatment, Payment and Health Care Operations. Our office may use or disclose your protected health information (PHI), for treatment, payment, and health care operation purposes. To help clarify these terms, here are some definitions.

- Protected Health Information refers to information in your health/medical record that could identify you. This does not include psychotherapy notes.
- Treatment is when we provide, coordinate, or manage your health care and other services related to your health care. An example of treatment would be when your provider consults with another health care provider, such as your family physician or another psychologist or counselor.
- Payment is when we obtain reimbursement for your healthcare. Examples of payment are when I disclose your PHI to your health insurer to obtain reimbursement for your health care or to determine eligibility or coverage.
- Health Care Operations are activities that relate to the performance and operation of our practice. Examples of health care operations are quality assessment and improvement activities, business-related matters such as audits and administrative services, and case management and care coordination.
- Use applies only to activities with our office such as sharing, employing, applying, utilizing, examining, and analyzing information that identifies you.
- Disclosure applies to activities outside our office, such as releasing, transferring, or providing access to information about other parties.

Uses and Disclosures Requiring Authorization. Our office may use or disclose PHI for purposes outside of treatment, payment, and health care operations when your appropriate authorization is obtained. An "authorization" is written permission above and beyond the general consent that permits only specific disclosures. In those instances when we are asked for information for purposes outside of treatment, payment and health care operations, we will obtain an authorization from you before releasing this information. We will also need to obtain an authorization before releasing your psychotherapy notes. "Psychotherapy notes" are notes that are made about your conversations during a private, group, joint, or family counseling session with your therapist. These notes are given a greater degree of protection that PHI. You may revoke all such authorizations (of PHI or psychotherapy notes) at any time, provided each revocation is in writing.

You may not revoke an authorization to the extent that (1) we have relied on that authorization; or (2) if the authorization was obtained as a condition of obtaining insurance coverage, and the law provides the insurer the right to contest the claim under the policy.

Uses and Disclosures with Neither Consent or Authorization. Our office may use or disclose PHI without your consent or authorization in the following circumstances:

- Child Abuse: if our office has reasonable cause to suspect that a child, under the age of eighteen, has been abused or neglected, law requires us, to report that information to the state's attorney, the Department of Social Services or law enforcement personnel.
- Health Oversight: If the Minnesota Board of Behavioral Health and Therapy is conducting an investigation, then we are required to disclose your mental health records upon receipt of a subpoena from the Board.
- Judicial or Administrative Proceedings: If you are involved in a court proceeding and a request is made for information about your diagnosis and treatment and the records thereof, such information is privileged under state law, and we may not release information without your written authorization or a court order. The privilege does not apply when you are being evaluated for a third party or where the evaluation is court-ordered. You will be informed in advance, if this is the case.
- Serious Threat to Health or Safety: When we judge that a disclosure of confidential information is necessary to protect against a clear and substantial risk of imminent harm being inflicted by you on yourself or another person, our office may disclose such information to those persons who would address such a problem (for example, the police or the potential victim).
- Workers Compensation: If you file a worker's compensation claim, our office is required by law to provide your mental health information relevant to that particular injury, upon demand, to you, your employer, the insurer, and the Department of Labor.
